

PLAIN QUAKERS

PRESENT

The Chocolate Paradox

some reflections on pleasure, principle and profit

In a small Yorkshire town, a group of friends is caught up in the modern world of financial skulduggery, but how and where does their hero ('the inventor of the most delicious chocolate bar ever'), George Cadbury, fit in? A new play, to be performed at

Settle Friends Meeting House, Kirkgate

Sunday, 26th February 2012

at 2 pm

Adults £5

includes refreshments

Students £2.50

Tickets available from Alison Tyas at Quaker Garth, opposite Victoria Hall (tel. 822313) or at the door.